Faculty consultation and support is an appropriate and important part of the process for the awarding of promotion. The school dean shall convene as a promotion committee all full-time regular faculty within the school. Members of the promotion committee shall indicate their professional judgments as to whether the person should be promoted. If promotion is being considered for the school dean, the vice president of academic affairs will appoint a member of the school's full-time regular faculty to convene and chair the promotion committee.

The Dean of the School reports, in writing, the committee's recommendation and a personal recommendation to the chairperson of the Professional Affairs Committee. This report will include justification according to the adopted criteria for the committee's recommendation. If promotion is being
